

SI

NEW YORK

New York Magazine
 "The Approval Matrix: Week of
 June 29, 2015"
 June 29, 2015

The Approval Matrix: Week of June 29, 2015

HIGHBROW
	 Pope Francis says weapons manufacturers shouldn't call themselves Christians.
	Season two of Teen Vogue's cheerful Strictly Ballet web series spotlights the diverse young dancers of Miami City Ballet.
	 Blanca Li's adorable dancing robots at BAM. They fall down, but they get back up again!
	● Nevet Yitzhak's digital versions of Afghan rug designs at Yossi Milo.
	Plus "Pepper," SoftBank Robotics' four-foot-tall robotic companion, sold out its first production run in less than a minute.
	 Dora Budor's mysterious industrial miniature abstractions at Swiss Institute.
	 Helen Rosner's essay in praise of the chicken tender, in Guernica.
	Bill de Blasio adds the Lunar New Year to the school calendar, allowing families to celebrate without tarnishing attendance records.
	LG to reduce height of HQ, preserving the Palisades' prehistoric view.
	 The Friday-night

BRILLIANT